Mission ready: Australia's Space industry

Access our world class research and development

Take advantage of our robotics and automation expertise

Connect to the global space economy

Australia aims to triple the size of our space industry to A$12 billion and create up to 20,000 new Australian jobs by 2030.

There's growth opportunities in:

- Robotics and automation systems
- Commercialisation of rocket technology
- Nano and small satellites
- Launch vehicles and facilities
- Propellants and fuels
- Payloads, Sensors and Communications arrays
- Position, navigation and timing tools
- Solar panels
- Structural components, and
- Optical wireless communication technologies.

The Australian Space Agency in Adelaide, brings together government space initiatives, academic research projects and commercial programs and is the conduit for international collaboration.

Australia's space infrastructure

The Taskforce is offering:

- Fast track visas
- Facilitated relocation of company executives, key staff and their families
- The certainty of permanent residency
- Tailored advice to help kick start your Australian success
- Connections to industry and professional networks

Support and research partnership opportunities

The A$150 million Moon to Mars initiative supports Australian companies to get involved in NASA's plans to return to the Moon and then go on to Mars. This includes:

- The Moon to Mars Supply Chain Program
- The Moon to Mars Demonstrator Program, and
- The Moon to Mars Trailblazer Program.

Australia's national science agency, CSIRO, welcomes business and research partnerships.

The A$19.5 million Space Infrastructure Fund provides funding to build space payload qualification capability and capacity and test mission-ready space equipment.

The Space National Manufacturing Priority roadmap identifies growth opportunities in the industry.

Project co-funding is available through the A$1.5 billion Modern Manufacturing Strategy.
